ABSTRACT

Fund Flow Statements summarize a firm's inflow and outflow of funds. Simply put, it tells investors where funds have come from and where funds have gone. The statements are often used to determine whether companies efficiently source and utilize funds available to them.

Fund flow statements are prepared by taking the balance sheets for two dates representing the coverage period. The increases and decreases must then be calculated for each item. Finally, the changes are classified under four categories: (1) Long-term sources, (2) long-term uses, (3) short-term sources, (4) short-term uses.

It is also important to zero out the non-fund based adjustments in order to capture only the changes that are accompanied by flow of funds. However, income accrued but not received and expenses incurred but not received are reckoned in the profit and loss statement and should not be excluded from the profit figure for the fund flow statement.

Fund flow statements can be used to identify a variety of problems in the way a company operates. For example, companies that are using short-term money to finance long-term investments may run into liquidity problems in the future. Meanwhile, a company that is using long-term money to finance short-term investments may not be efficiently utilizing its capital.

1. INTRODUCTION

The basic financial statements i.e., the Balance Sheet and Profit & Loss A/c or Income Statement of business reveals the net effect of various transactions on operational and financial position of the company. The balance sheet gives a summary of the assets & liabilities of an undertaking at a particular point of time.

There are many transactions that take place in an undertaking and which do not appear in Profit & Loss A/c. Thus another statement has to be prepared to show the change in Assets & Liabilities from the end of one period of time to the end of another period of time. The statement is called a statement of changes in financial position or a Funds Flow Statement.

The Funds Flow Statement is a statement which shows the movement of funds and is a report of financial operations of business undertaking. In simple words it is a statement of source and application of funds.

NEED AND IMPORTANCE OF STUDY

Many business owners disregard the importance of Funds flow statements because they unwittingly believe that their current financial standing can be construed from other financial reports and projections. Unfortunately, however, a Funds flow statement is necessary to adequately assess the incoming and outgoing flow of Funds and other resources in a business. Not only will a business owner with a Funds flow system be more aware of his or her financial standing, but it will also help investors to make educated decisions on future investments. A business with regular and reliable Funds flow statements shows more economic solvency, and is more attractive to investors.

A Funds flow statement documents the incoming and outgoing Funds in plain terms. Future sales and sales made for credit (unless they have been paid off) are not included in the Funds flow statement, and most of the data will come from core operations. Payables and receivables should be expressly defined, as should depreciation of product value and inventory that has not yet been moved.

This will allow a business owner to compare past periods with the current financial standing and determine whether your receivables have increased or decreased.

This can also help to track your investments next to your receivables and payables. Are your investments increasing or decreasing in value? And has your inventory moved at a steady pace? New or expanding businesses can expect to see a decrease in Funds flow, but this doesn't mean that the business is going under. More stable businesses should see a steadily increase in Funds flow over a period of several months or years.

There are typically five different sections in a Funds flow statement, though large businesses might have more complex Funds flow systems as required.

3. Funds Flow Statement

In every concern, the funds flow in form different sources and similarly funds are invested in various sources of investment. It is continuous process. The study and control of this funds-flow process (i.e., the uses and sources of funds) is the main objective of financial management to assess the soundness and the solvency of the enterprise.

The funds-flow-statement is a report on financial operations changes, flow or movements during the period. It is a statement which shows the sources an application of funds or it shows how the activities of a business are financed in a particulate period. In other words, such a statement shows how the financial resources have been used during a particular period of time. It is, thus, a historical statement showing sources and application of funds between the two dates designed especially to analyse the changes in the financial conditions of an enterprise. In the words of Foulke, it is-

“A statement of Sources and Application of Funds is a technical device designed to analyse the changes in the financial condition of a business enterprises between two dates.”

Funds Flow Statement is not an income statement . Income statement shows the items of income and expenditure of a particular period, but the Funds flow statement is an operating statement as it summaries the financial activities for a period of time. It covers all movements that involve an actual exchange of assets.

Various titles are used for this statement such as 'Statement of sources and Application of Funds', 'Summary of Financial operations,' 'Changes in Financial Position', 'Fund received and Disbursed', 'Funds Generated and Expended', 'Changes in Working Capital', "Statement of Fund' etc. Title of Funds Flow Statement has been modified from time to time. Really it is very difficult to find a short time for such statement which carries much to the readers regarding its contents an functions.

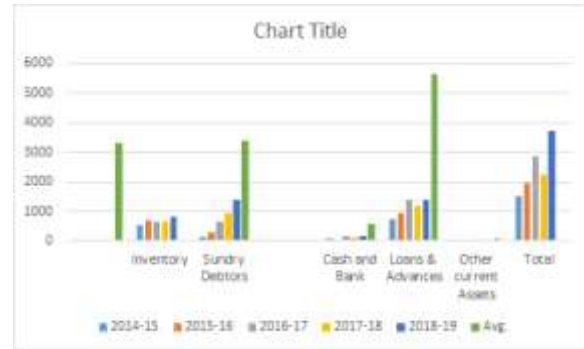

A new interpretation of the term 'funds, has now been adopted as to include assets or financial resourceful which do not flow through the working capital accounts. It seems to be the most suitable meaning fort the term 'funds' but the most commonly used interpretation of the term 'funds' is 'working capital'

The income statement is also called as income statement, it is considered to be the most useful of all financial statements. It prepared by a business concern in order to know the profit earned and loss sustained during a specified period. It explains what has happened to a business as a result of operations between two balance sheet dates. For this purpose it matches the revenues and cost incurred in the process of earning revenues and shows the net profit earned or loss suffered during a particular period.

The nature of Income which is a focus of the income statement can be well understood if business is taken as an organization that uses "Input" to produce "Output". The output of the goods and services that the business provides to its customers. The values of these outputs are the goods and services that the business provides to its customers. The values of these outputs art the amounts paid by the customers for them. These amounts are called "revenues" in the accounting. The inputs are the economic resources used by the business in providing these goods and services. These are termed "expenses" in accounting.
